

If you're trying to get your head around parameters within Revit, you are in luck. I'm currently in the process of bringing over all the articles from

Revit Zone

to revit.biz

. And on today's menu we have a large serving of Parameter info!

In this article I look at creating a simple custom component family that utilises length parameters to add flexibility to it.

Check out the whole article here